JUST IN TIME.

Down In Health and Strength, Nervous Irritable, Ache All Over, a Depressed Condition Rapidly Changed.

Mrs. J. L. Sieber, of No. 404 North Maple st., Akron, Ohio, says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are a splendid spring tonic as well as a nerve tonic. When I got the box I was feeling down in health and strength, dull, listless, no energy. I used but the one box, yet feel strong and well again in every way—plenty of strength, energy, and vigor, consequently I like the medicine very much."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

HEROIC DARING

Government Life-Saving Crew Receive Gold Medals.

The Overtaking of a Life-Boat In the Surf on Lake Erie Ends the Usefulness of One Hardy Rescuer.

From the thirty-first day of October to the eleventh day of November, 1883, the crew of the U. S. life-saving station at Cleveland, Ohio, saved twenty-seven men and two women from vessels thrown ashore by the storms that lashed the waters of Lake Erie. To each of the nine men in the crew the government gold medal "for heroic daring" was awarded, and the story of the earning of these medals gives a glimpse of the perils that these hardy men are trained to face.

It was on the eleventh of October that the most thrilling rescue was accomplished under difficulties that would have daunted most men. The brave J. T. Janson, went down during a howling hurricane. Through the driving spray and pounding surf, the heroic band launched the life-boat in an effort to get a line to the distressed vessel. No sooner was the boat in the water, and the men in their places than it was capsized by an immense wave and the men thrown into the water. One of the crew was Charles L. Learned, forty-one years old and a vigorous specimen of manhood. When the boat rolled he was caught beneath it and pinned down by its oar, lost consciousness. The action of the waves washed him from under the boat before life was extinct and his cork belt brought him to the surface. Consciousness slowly returned, but he was helpless and drifted ashore. Hundreds of people had gathered to watch the work of rescue. A policeman and a laborer drew Learned from the water and took him to the customs house where he was revived by stimulants. The other members of the life crew made their way to the shore and hurried for the beach apparatus. In about one hour and a half they returned and Learned had so far recovered that he made his way to the scene of the wreck and took his place with the crew. All hands were saved, but Learned's career as a life-saver was ended. In relating the story, he said that rheumatism quickly set in as a result of the cold and exposure. This was complicated with neuritis. "I had such pains in my back that I could hardly move," he says, "and the least excitement would cause my heart to beat violently. I had to be very careful of my diet and suffered much distress after eating. I could not sleep, my head ached, I was all run-down and discouraged. Having been disabled in the government service, I received something over six hundred dollars in addition to my gold medal."

Mr. Learned is now a prosperous farmer at Sandy Creek, N. Y., and the story of his restoration to activity is best told as he tells it. "About four years ago," he says, "I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised in a newspaper. I tried them and truly believe that if I had not I should be in my grave now. The pills began to help me in less than a week. Not only did they benefit my rheumatism, but they built up my strength, so that I was soon able to do a bigger day's work than in years before. The insomnia disappeared and sleep was sound and refreshing. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to many and am glad to endorse them. Everyone at Sandy Creek and Richmond, N. Y., knows of my recovery and that it is due to this remedy."

Mr. Learned's address is Pulaski (R. F. D.), N. Y., and he will verify the foregoing account if letters of inquiry enclose stamped and addressed envelope for reply.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will never fail to effect a cure if used persistently for a reasonable length of time. They may be had of all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., six 50-cent boxes for two dollars and a half, postpaid, on receipt of price.

THE YARDMASTER.

He Must Have the Ability of a General and the Patience of Job.

Situated on the west side of the railroad tracks almost midway between the Union depot and the South Akron station is a small yellow building somewhat the worse for age. A painted sign nailed to the building, bears the inscription, "Erie Yard Office." The interior of the building resembles much the exterior. No costly paintings adorn the walls, the furniture is not upholstered, and a visitor at the office does not tread upon Persian rugs.

The interior is plain, severely plain, almost dingy. Passing trains with their columns of smoke and noise make the building far from being an ideal retreat for a poet or a philosopher. Yet Mr. Jno. W. Moore, Erie yardmaster, and occupant of this building, is continually solving problems here that would nerve the average citizen if he were in the most ideal spot that Nature could produce. He is an expert checker of cars and the freight cars in the yard are the checkers on which he practices, while the multitude of switches in the yards are the squares of the large checker board.

At his office in the morning before the whistles of the various plants of the city mark the beginning of the day's work for a large proportion of Akron's inhabitants, he is still on duty in the evening when the same whistles blow the close of a day's work in the industrial plants. Not only does he superintend the day work of the yard crews, but he also arranges their night work.

As the expert checker player is distinguished from the average player of draughts by his ability to see far into the game, so does the expert yardmaster outshine the average. His position is one of the greatest responsibility. Many people who send freight have probably only heard of such a person as the yardmaster, yet it is he who sees that the cars loaded with incoming freight are shifted to the right place and it is the same man who has the empty freight cars picked up and sent away as well as those which are loaded with out-bound freight.

It is the yardmaster who sees to it that cars loaded with perishable goods are quickly gotten away and that incoming freight, which is wanted quickly, is sent at once to the proper switch. He can tell on a moment's notice where all the cars in his yard are located and he has them so arranged that they can be gotten at without useless switching.

Strange as it may seem, it is true that night work in the yards is far easier to do than the day work. At night the switching crews can begin at one end of the yard and take everything clean as they go. During the day they may begin at one end of the yard and be called suddenly to the other end of the yard to place a car that is wanted immediately. The number of cars in the Erie yards is usually about 600, and it is easily seen that the position of yardmaster is not one in which the occupant can sit in his office, place his feet on a desk and smoke Xanoxas as the trains roll noisily past. The work is hard, brain figures largely in the results, and the yardmaster is looked upon as one of the most important men in the city in railway circles.

When the stomach is diseased all the other organs suffer, hence fatal diseases of the heart, liver, lungs and kidneys are often the result of improper digestion. ## The Grand Duke Took Offense and Left a Society Dinner.

GRAND DUKE BORIS AND ASTOR PARTY

Newport, Sept. 13.—Duke Boris, of Russia, was so cordially entertained at Newport that he missed his steamer for Europe. The above picture shows a party of Newport devotees and the Duke on a launching trip. Col. Astor is at the tiller, and beside him is Mrs. Astor. Mrs. Lehr is next and at her right is Mrs. Drexel. Harry Lehr is standing immediately aft of the boiler. In the center of the triple group, on the right, is the Grand Duke Boris smoking a cigarette.

A story is going the rounds to the effect that the Grand Duke Boris left hurriedly Wednesday night from an entertainment given in his honor by one of the leading women of the smart set here and his hurried departure is attributed to what the grand Duke thought was a breach of table etiquette. In Russia, as in other kingdoms, members of the royal family always receive the first attention. It is stated that at the dinner Wednesday evening, the serving men at the table first helped the hostess and that the Grand Duke at once felt injured and left. A woman who had been entertaining the Grand Duke also left with her party. All were driven to the latter's home, where the buffet was directed to prepare dinner at once.
